The course "Inclusive Early Childhood Classrooms" accompanies ECEL 502 Seminar and through required fieldwork, the course provides clinical experiences in an early childhood setting to foster the skills and dispositions necessary to become effective and nurturing teachers. Students are provided with learning opportunities that support children's intellectual, social, and emotional development. They design environments that support culturally responsive teaching, and plan and assess high quality curriculum. Students develop skills as reflective and questioning practitioners, promote democratic values and communication in the classroom, and build relationships with school colleagues, families, and agencies in the larger community. Students are responsible for the full range of teacher activities in the classroom, and must demonstrate their strengths as a teacher during the visits from MSU's P-3 MAR program mentors several times throughout the clinical semester. During the second semester of this 4-semester program, students must be employed as full-time teachers or lead teachers in an early childhood classroom. The culminating Clinical Experience course for students occurs simultaneously with the students working full-time as a teacher and working with a provisional license, or as an assistant teacher.

Enrollment and Program Completers

In each of the following categories, provide the total number of individuals enrolled in teacher preparation programs for an initial teaching credential and the subset of individuals enrolled who also completed the program during the academic year.

Enrollment and Program Completers

The sum of one or more categories does not equal the reported total. Please correct the data, or confirm.

Sum(s) do not equal total

PLEASE PROVIDE AN EXPLANATION:

The sum within the race category equals the total number of enrolled students and the subset of program completers because our program collects data about how each student racially identifies and if they do not self-identify their race then they are entered as a "No Race/Ethnicity" reported. Students also are able to self-identify as either "Hispanic-Latino," "Not Hispanic-Latino," or they leave this prompt blank. Students who indicate they are "Hispanic-Latino" are entered as such in both the Enrolled Students and Program Completers sections. Students who do not self-identify with a race or ethnicity are entered into the "No Race/Ethnicity Reported."

Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Key terms in this section are listed below. Click on the link to view the definition(s) in the glossary.

Academic Major

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

- >> Teachers Prepared by Subject Area
- >> Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2019-20.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205(b)(1)(H))

What are CIP Codes?

No teachers prepared in academic year 2019-20

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2019-20. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205(b)(1)(H))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education—Chemistry" category.

What are CIP Codes?

Do	participants	earn a	degree	upon	completion	of the	program?

Yes No
7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.
• Yes • No

8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

In many of our courses students gain knowledge, skills and dispositions to work collaboratively with diverse families to support the development and education of young children with special needs, including students with disabilities, limited English proficiency, and low socioeconomic status. Our program meets the needs of the state by recruiting talented individuals to enter the teaching profession. Many of our alternate route candidates can bring life and career experiences to enhance their contributions to instruction and student growth and development. Our program requirements align with the rigorous state requirements for state certification. Furthermore, our student recruitment of individuals seeking a nontraditional route to teaching further assists the state with its initiative to increase the ethno-racial diversity of the teaching workforce.

Annual Goals: Mathematics

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

Assessment Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. (§205(a)(1)(B))

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact Westat's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

- 2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

One of the classes in our 24 credit program specifically focuses on how to integrate science, math and technology into the classroom curriculum. Students learn strategies to engage children in active explorations aligned with the NJ Science, Math and Technology Standards. Students recognize the integration of science and math content as vehicles for critical thinking, and children's engagement in the wonder and study of the natural and physical world. Additionally, all of our courses utilize technology to facilitate instruction via web conferences, virtual class discussions, synchronous learning experiences, asynchronous learning experiences, and collaborative group assignments. All of the program courses engage the alternate-route teacher to design learning based on the unique needs of each young learner. Faculty incorporate Universal Design for Learning principles to ensure teachers are prepared to provide multiple means of representation and engagement using technology within the learning environment.

SECTION VI: TEACHER TRAINING

- 1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:
 - a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

The P-3 Modified Alternate Route program is closely aligned with the course and curriculum requirements of the college's traditional teacher preparation program. The program's state-approved 24 credits of graduate coursework embraces a philosophy of inclusive education with a strong emphasis on developing teacher capacity to meet the needs of all learners. Nine credits of the program focus exclusively on best practices in inclusion and special education for teachers of students in pre-kindergarten through grade three. Additionally, all courses within the P-3 Modified Alternate Route program prioritize meeting all learners of a well-designed lesson plan template that clarifies how Universal Design for Learning (UDL) strategies will be implemented to support students with varied learning needs.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the *Individuals with Disabilities*Education Act

The P-3 Modified Alternate Route program provides ample opportunities for teacher candidates to develop the requisite skills to fully participate as a member of an IEP team. Throughout the program's coursework, teacher candidates complete thoughtfully-designed assignments and course-embedded assessments that focus on the unique needs of each student while learning to partner with families to support the learning of all students. Through these assignments and assessments, teacher candidates hone their skills in: collaborating with a group of educators to design learning supports for students, create assessments and lesson plans to guide instruction for all students, planning Universal Design for Learning strategies to increase access for students, collect both quantitative and qualitative student learning data, and analyze patterns of learning for individual students and groups of students within the learning environment. Additionally, teacher candidates within this program are required to view students from an assets lens, instead from a deficit standpoint, to enhance the learning experiences for all students.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

The P-3 Modified Alternate Route program prepares general education early childhood teachers who are knowledgeable about literacy development strategies to meet the learning needs of all students. During the 24 credits of graduate study, teacher candidates explore strategies to develop language and literacy proficiency in students with varied learning needs. Six credits of graduate study are explicitly dedicated to the development of teacher candidates' literacy development skills and an understanding of what effective literacy instruction within early childhood classrooms. In addition to learning various literacy development strategies for limited English proficient students, teacher candidates have the opportunity to apply these learned skills within their classrooms immediately since all teacher candidates within this program are required to be employed as lead teachers or teacher assistants working under a provisional teacher license. These strategies to support limited English proficient students are grounded in research and theory with the opportunity for immediate application within early childhood classrooms. Additionally, teacher candidates learn how to plan effectively for limited English proficient students by planning Universal Design for Learning strategies and supports for students with varied learning needs.

2. Does your program prepare special education teachers?

The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

Our mission is to prepare professionals who possess the knowledge, skills, and dispositions to transform early childhood, elementary, and life-long literacy education in the service of social justice, inclusion and democratic values. As a department, we strive collectively with our students to ensure that their teaching is grounded in the following ideals: Respect for the value and high expectations for the learning of every person is a fundamental principle of teaching and learning; All students must be engaged in meaningful and intellectually rigorous learning; Collaboration with families, schools and communities is imperative; Teaching and learning are social processes with political implications; Educators are cultural and political workers who acknowledge their role in a democracy through the promotion of inclusion and social justice; Critical education is a transformative process that works to change "what is" while simultaneously preparing people to participate in "what is yet to be."; Educators have a responsibility to recognize and disrupt privilege and oppression related to race, gender, LGBTQ identities, disability, immigration and linguistic differences, religious diversity, and class; Making positive social change requires taking initiative through collaborative and collegial engagement with other members of the school and local community.
